

The Eastport Spire

“Inspire Us to Great Things”

January 2014

We share our experiences of God’s Kingdom with all, through our faith, love, fellowship, and service. It is our vision to have everyone actively involved in worship that enriches, ministries that empower, and evangelism that embraces all.

Pastor’s Corner

Dear Church,

When you receive this issue of the Spire, 2013 is gone and 2014 is here to stay, for a long while. And yet according to the church calendar that began with our observance of the first Sunday of Advent last December 1, 2013, we are still in the Christmas season. Officially, the season ends with our observance of the Feast of the Epiphany – the appearance of The Lord – to the three men from the East, which falls on Sunday, the 5th of January in this new year (since the 6th, which ends the Christmas season, is a weekday).

Personally, I always look forward to the twelve days of Christmas that start after Christmas Day and end on the Feast of the Epiphany. The busyness leading up to Christmas over, I consider these days extended gifts from the Lord for quiet reflection; time to take stock of what has been in the year that has just drawn to a close. I also take these days as invitation to contemplate what the future holds for us as a congregation as we spend these last few months together; for my siblings and relatives in Leyte who are trying to put their lives back together after typhoon Haiyan; for the world God entrusted to our care; for Vern and me.

On our own, there is little that we can do when confronted by life’s challenges as our different experiences over the past year have shown. But when we put our trust in the Lord who is Immanuel – God with us – and align our goals with his divine plan and will for our wellbeing as individuals, members of our families, congregation, society and as citizens of the world; when we work together for the common good, we can be assured of divine guidance and blessing in what we hope to accomplish when we stay in love with the Lord.

And so as this new year continues to unfold, let us trust in God’s guidance as we do the best we can to minister in this corner of the world where God has planted us – here in Eastport – and as we reach out with compassion to the larger community and the world. May God bless us all with a good year.

~ Grace & Peace, Pastor MaAn

Outgoing and Incoming Church Leaders

On December 29, the congregation thanked the following leaders for their years of faithful service to God through the congregation: Sherrie Little, Chair of the Staff Parish Relations Team (SPRT); Wendy Edstrom, Lay Leader; Tom Schwallenberg, Treasurer; and Eunice Corse, Administrative Assistant.

On January 5th, the congregation will welcome the following as they assume their responsibilities: Eric Smaridge, SPRT Chair; Jean Strucko, Lay Leader, and Eric Edstrom, Treasurer.

And to those who continue to serve as leaders, coordinators, members and volunteers of the different teams that render so much invaluable service to the church – thank you very much! (A listing of 2014 team leaders and members is included in this issue. The congregation is encouraged to familiarize themselves with it and to use it a guide for who to approach when the Spirit calls you to serve).

The Mood of Christmas

by Rev. Howard Thurman

When the song of the angels is stilled,
When the star in the sky is gone,
When the kings and princes are home,
When the shepherds are back with their flock,
The work of Christmas begins:
 To find the lost,
 To heal the broken,
 To feed the hungry,
 To release the prisoner,
 To rebuild the nations,
To bring peace among brothers,
 To make music in the heart.

Luminaries

Thank you to all the Church families who made Luminaries for Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve. They were spectacular and made a beautiful showing for the church entrance. Next year I hope we can double the amount. Thank you for taking the time for this small project at Christmas time.

~ Sincerely, Paulette Schwallenberg

Christmas Dedications

Once again the beauty of Christmas was evident in our sanctuary by the addition of the colorful poinsettias that graced the altar and made our beautiful poinsettia tree. How fortunate we are to have many generous members who purchased the plants! In addition, a large number of members chose to make their dedications by contributing money to our food pantry fund. To date, $519 was received and will greatly assist in purchasing food for our hungry community friends. (Note – If you still owe for your dedications, please give your contribution to Joyce Conley or to the church office. Do not place in offering plate.)

~ Thanks! Joyce Conley

Homework and Reading Ministry

At the annual Christmas party for the 28 children enrolled in the Homework and Reading Ministry, we learned how seriously the kids take their school work. The vast majority of the youngsters brought their homework – and, that being our top priority, the volunteers spent the first half hour helping the kids with their assignments. Then the fun began. The children enjoyed ornament making, dinner, and a visit from Santa. The families of the kids also were present for the festivities. The gifts for the children were provided by the staff and families of Colonial Nursery and Preschool. We thank them as well as Jeff Conley for making arrangements for Santa's appearance and Ann Rawls for coordinating the food.

The Homework and Reading Ministry continues to grow, and we are in need of additional adult volunteers. The sessions are held Tuesday and Thursday from 4 to 5 p.m. in the fellowship hall. But volunteers do not have to be there each time. Whatever works best for your schedule is fine! Just be sure to give yourself the opportunity to help these children know that they are loved.

A Cheyenne Prayer for Peace

Let us know peace.
For as long as the moon shall rise,
For as long as the rivers shall flow,
For as long as the sun shall shine,
For as long as the grass shall grow,
Let us know peace.

5th Annual New Year's Eve Interfaith Worship Celebration

A HAPPY
NEW YEAR

2014 Resolutions

This event here in our own church has become a favorite of a lot of people in the larger community. Approximately 150 people were in attendance. While the early fireworks rumbled in downtown Annapolis, we listened to the words of multiple faith traditions speaking of unity, peace, love and compassion.

Rabbi Philip Pohl of Congregation Kol Shalom used the Shofar to call us to prayer. He also delivered this year's reflection. After music, readings and prayers, we stood together and belted out "Let there be peace on earth, and let it begin with me...our solemn vow, to take each moment and live each moment with peace eternally...." It's an experience that stays with you for a while! We are extremely grateful for all who participated in any way – it was a beautiful ending to 2013 and good beginning for 2014! Thank you one and all for joining in this effort to improve interfaith relations in our city. With your continued support, it will keep on growing.

Christmas Card Display

You still have time to admire and read all the beautiful Christmas cards from EUMC members displayed on the hallway's bulletin board. This year's participants contributed $100 to our piano and organ fund. We thank all who participated!

~ Joyce Conley

Now that 2014 is officially here, many of us are in the process of making New Year's resolutions. The concept of making New Year's resolutions is commonplace in our society; however, we all know how difficult it is to actually follow through. I decided to Google search Bible scriptures on New Year's resolutions and came across this list which should help you approach your New Year's resolutions. The purpose of providing Bible verses is to establish a biblical grounding for the goals you set out. Also, instead of just giving you Bible verses for New Year's resolutions, I've included practical ways that you can use these verses to achieve your New Year's resolutions. With all of that said, here are 5 Bible verses for New Year's resolutions.

#1 - Colossians 3:13: Mend a Broken Relationship

"Bear with each other and forgive whatever grievances you may have against one another. Forgive as the Lord forgave you." Practical Application: We all have broken or severed relationships in our lives that we've given up on. Maybe you've been hurt by a loved one or close friend. The concept of forgiving and forgetting isn't one you'll find in Scripture, but forgiveness is. Consider forgiving someone who's hurt you or seek forgiveness from someone whom you've pained.

#2 - Matthew 25:35-36 and 40: Actively Seek Out to Help the Poor, Homeless, and Needy

For I was hungry and you gave me something to eat, I was thirsty and you gave me something to drink, I was a stranger and you invited me in, I needed clothes and you clothed me, I was sick and you looked after me, I was in prison and you came to visit me.' "The King will reply, 'Truly I tell you, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers and sisters of mine, you did for me.' Practical Application: The Bible continually reminds us to take care of the poor, the widowed, and the less fortunate. Consciously go out and help those in need. Whether you decide to serve at a soup kitchen or visit the elderly, this New Year's resolution is all about serving.

#3 - 1 Corinthians 19:20: Improve Your Physical Well-Being

"Do you not know that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit, who is in you, whom you have received from God? You are not your own; you were bought at a price. Therefore honor God with your body."

Practical Application: Ever considered that God actually wants you to take care of your body? While in context this verse is actually dealing with sexual immorality, the overarching theme is often missed. We ought to honor God with our bodies through everything that we do; thus, taking care of bodies physically falls under this umbrella and ultimately is a matter of good stewardship. If your New Year's resolution is to get in shape, use this Bible verse to remind you that you're working to improve something that you ought to make the best anyways.

#4 - Matthew 14:22-23: Consciously Set Aside Time to Spend with God

"Immediately Jesus made the disciples get into the boat and go on ahead of him to the other side, while he dismissed the crowd. After he had dismissed them, he went up on a mountainside by himself to pray. When evening came, he was there alone..."

Practical Application: Jesus understood the value of time spent with God in solitude. If you do not currently devote time to being alone with God, make it a New Year's resolution to set aside some period of time to God. You can spend this time in prayer, reading your Bible, journaling, singing a worship song, etc. While this can definitely be a difficult New Year's resolution, we have to remember that being in tune with God requires of us to actually spend time investing in the relationship.

#5 - Mark 12:29-31: Loving God = Loving Others

"The most important one" answered Jesus, "is this: 'Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God, the Lord is one. Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind and with all your strength.' The second is this: 'Love your neighbor as yourself.' There is no commandment greater than these."

Practical Application: The concept behind these verses is twofold. One, loving God requires loving Him with all that you are. The second is a direct result of the first: if you love God, you will love others. All of the aforementioned New Year's resolutions and Bible verses are essentially summed up through this passage. The question then is whether or not we are going to make these New Year's resolutions much more than annual attempts to better ourselves, but daily convictions that stem from a true desire to love the Lord.

Brothers and Sisters before you make a decision about what you want to change in your life in 2014, ask God for clarity of mind and a peaceful spirit. Let him guide your steps and see you through the next 365 days. I guarantee if you let go and let God, life will be great!!

Our Church Yard

As winter time quiets nature and all flowers and trees are asleep, I want to thank all Church family members who volunteered to work in the Church yard and gardens. Without fail the grass was cut, trash picked up, hedges cut and mulch installed. Trees were trimmed, leaves raked and flowers planted. Eastport United Methodist Church is a great green space in Eastport and we should be proud of what we do. Thank you for all your hard work!

~ Happy New Year, Paulette Schwallenberg

Mystery Tie Project

Sally Colburn and Carol Emory have granted an extension – there is still time to donate one of your neckties but don't put it off. You have until the end of January. Come on, you can part with one tie, even if you didn't get a new one for Christmas! Leave it in the church office, as long as it's identified with your name.

Job Opening

Our church office is in need of someone to fill an opening as a part-time Administrative Assistant. Requirements are computer skills and the desire to do meaningful work as part of a team. As the job is shared with another admin assistant, hours are flexible. If you or someone you know is interested, please contact Eric Smaridge (Staff-Parish Relations) at 443-570-8425 or by email eric@esdrafting.com.

For Your Health.....

When you want to change a loved one. We know that we can't change others. But many of us still try. "More people suffer from trying to change others than from any other sickness," according to psychologists Henry Cloud, Ph.D, and John Townsend, Ph.D, in their bestselling book Boundaries: When to Say Yes, How to Say No to Take Control of Your Life.

Many of us try nagging, begging, yelling, guilt trips, even throwing temper tantrums and other ploys to get through to a loved one. Or we realize that controlling someone else is simply impossible. And there's absolutely nothing we can do – even when that person's behavior affects us for the worse. Or is there? In Boundaries, [the authors] share 10 laws for setting limits. One of their laws is called the law of power. According to the authors, while we can't control others, we can influence them by focusing on ourselves. Since you can't get them to change, you must change yourself so their destructive patterns no longer work on you. Change your way of dealing with them; they may be motivated to change if their old ways no longer work.

Once we relinquish the need to control others, an incredible thing happens: We become healthier (maybe even more at peace). And that person you finally stopped trying to control may even "notice and envy your health. They may want some of what you have." The reality is that nagging someone to change their behavior — along with other similar tactics — only perpetuates the problem. Instead, the best approach is to accept how someone is, respect their choice for being that way, and establish clear-cut consequences, according to the authors.

In other words, this means setting solid boundaries. It means figuring out what you're comfortable with, and what you're not comfortable with. It means clearly communicating to others what you're willing to tolerate and the consequences of crossing those boundaries. As Cloud and Townsend write, it means taking power over what you actually do have power over: yourself. They feature several examples of this approach in action. For instance, before setting a boundary, an individual might've said to someone: "Stop yelling at me. You must be nicer." On the other hand, after creating a boundary, the individual would say: "You can continue to yell if you choose to. But I will choose not to be in your presence when you act that way.” The first statements rarely work. They put you at the mercy of someone else’s actions. In the second set of statements, though, you ensure that you’re protected — regardless of whether the other person decides to meet your request.

Similarly, saying the following won’t get you very far: “You’ve just got to stop drinking. It’s ruining our family. Please listen. You’re wrecking our lives.” However, the below statements focus solely on you and your actions, clearly communicating your boundary and the consequences of crossing it: “You may choose not to deal with your drinking if you want. But I will not continue to expose myself and the children to this chaos. The next time you are drunk, we will go to the Wilsons’ for the night, and we will tell them why we are there. Your drinking is your choice. What I will put up with is mine.”

We may not be able to control others’ negative behavior. But we can empower ourselves by setting strong boundaries and following through when someone breaks them. This may not feel easy or natural at first. But keep practicing. Setting and maintaining our boundaries isn’t just an empowering act; it’s a liberating one that helps you lead a healthier life.
